HARVARD LAW SCHOOL | CAMBRIDGE MA
MAY 7 - 9, 2015

Join Harvard Law School Executive Education for an intensive, three-day course designed for lawyers who seek to deepen their knowledge of copyright law, litigation strategy, and business strategy while also strengthening their professional networks.

OVERVIEW

Through a combination of interactive discussions and lectures, this course will address (a) recent judicial decisions and statutory changes involving U.S. copyright law and their implications, (b) litigation strategy in copyright cases, and (c) non-litigation business strategy implicating copyright.

Because participants will be challenged to study, engage, and learn – both from program faculty and from each other – this program presents a unique opportunity to develop relationships with peer practitioners from across the globe. Our use of case studies involving very recent or ongoing controversies, combined with a highly interactive instructional methodology, ensures that the program will be relevant to the participants’ professional experiences and opportunities.

ADMISSIONS

Requirements

- Participants must be lawyers (either in the United States or in another country) and must have a basic understanding of copyright law in the United States, as this is an advanced course.
- Prospective participants who wish to ensure that their basic understanding is current and sufficient for this course may complete, prior to May 7, a self-paced program, consisting of nine recorded lectures by Professor William Fisher. (For information concerning that program and access to the lectures, see copyx.org/content/self-paced-study.)
- Proficiency in written and spoken English is essential.

PROGRAM FEE

The program fee includes tuition, course materials, accommodations and most meals. Payment is due within 30 days of the invoice date. Program Fee: $7,500
